House Leaders Open Debate On Defense Bill

Top Army Leaders Called By Senate Appropriations Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—The battle over a proposed 2½ billion dollar slash in new defense funds was waged in both House and Senate today.

House leaders opened debate on a $33,541,225,000 defense money measure carrying some 2½ billion less than President Eisenhower requested for the fiscal year starting July 1. No votes were expected until next week, perhaps Wednesday.

Army Leaders Called
Meanwhile, Chairman Chavez (D-NM) called top Army leaders before his Senate Appropriations subcommittee. Secretary of the Army Brucker and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, were lined up to present the Army's case for more money.

"We are not going to jeopardize the national defense," Chavez told newsmen in advance of the hearing.

"I'm rather partial to air power but I'll have to be satisfied they need every penny."

Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said in a separate interview he is convinced defense agencies could absorb the 2½ billion dollar cut recommended by the House Appropriations Committee—"and more if they just wanted to do it."

Wilson Enters Fight
White-hatched Secretary of Defense Wilson joined Thursday in the fight to avoid major cuts in defense outlays.

He agreed the services could take more than a billion dollars of the proposed cut, classifying this portion a bookkeeping matter. But he insisted repeatedly that more than a billion should be restored. Otherwise, he said, this country's missile, aircraft and warship programs would be affected adversely.

Wilson termed it wishful thinking to say "we can get ahead with a billion less now." He noted that labor and other costs have risen 12 or 13 per cent in three years.

There has been speculation that Wilson may resign after the defense money bill has cleared Congress.

$50,000 Building Addition At Bible Institute Planned

A $50,000 building will be constructed to house a Bible School department at the Salem Bible Institute, it was announced today by the school's board of trustees.

The trustees voted Wednesday to erect the two-story building, to be 40x120-feet, which will feature 14 classrooms, office space and an auditorium for interdenominational theological classes.

The school on the Woodsdale Road, now offers classes in grades one through twelve, including high school graduation; and the Bible School department will be an addition to the school curriculum.

Eight classrooms are expected to be constructed by fall at a cost of $20,000. The remainder of the project will be completed later as more funds are obtained by the institute which is opening a subscription campaign for money with which to build the addition.

Florida Governor Grants Family Sanctuary

Refuses To Extradite Couple, Foster Child

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—"Simple right and justice require that Hildy McCoy's present home life should not be disturbed."

With those words, Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday granted sanctuary in Florida to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Ellis, the Jewish foster parents of 6-year-old Hildy, born of an unwed Catholic mother.

Massachusetts—which has tried for four years to take the child away from the Ellises under a law requiring adoptions within religious faiths where possible—charged the Ellises with kidnapping Hildy.

Collins called the charge "synthetic" and said "the real issue is simply whether or not the custody of Hildy McCoy should continue with the Ellises or be placed under institutional control and direction."

The governor said that while he respected the right of the natural mother to have the child reared in her faith "it must yield to more fundamental rights."

"God . . . grants to every child . . . the right to be wanted and secondly the right to be loved. 'Hildy's mother has denied both of these rights to her. Admittedly she did not want Hildy in the first place . . . the mother claims that she now loves the child, but . . . love can only result from the giving of one's self to another.'"

Collins, a Protestant and the father of four children, concluded: "I sincerely hope that this child can now be allowed to continue to grow and develop in the only home—and with the only mother and father she has ever known."

Rider of Pony Hurt When Hit By Car

James A. Stamp, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stamp of Hanoverton, was treated at the Salem Central Clinic for injuries received when he was hit by a car operated by Shirley C. Short, 23, of Hanoverton, while riding a pony on the Whinnery Road, one-half mile south of Winona, Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

Stamp was treated for a possible fractured skull and neck and lacerations of the right leg and scalp. He is in fair condition.

The pony was only slightly hurt. Patrolmen said the youth and horse went out onto the highway from a clump of trees into the path of Short's car. He was not held.

Seeks To Limit 'A' Weapons To Three Nations

Stassen To Present U. S. Decision On Disarmament Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is trying to negotiate with Russia a disarmament treaty which would ban atomic weapons for all except the three powers that already have them. They are the United States, Russia and Britain.

This was reported on excellent authority today as Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarmament negotiator, carried toward conclusion a round of cabinet-level conferences on the next American move to be made in the London disarmament talks.

Stassen was to take part later today in a meeting at the State Department with Secretary Dulles and top officials of the Defense Department, Atomic Energy Commission, and other key agencies.

Plans To Leave Sunday
He plans to leave Sunday afternoon for the resumption of London negotiations Monday. In succeeding days there, he will present the new U. S. decisions to the representatives of Russia, Britain, France and Canada, who make up the United Nations Disarmament subcommittee.

Stassen took part Thursday in a meeting of the National Security Council under President Eisenhower's direction. He and Dulles later reported to Senate leaders on the status of negotiations and on the developing United States policy.

Stassen told the senators this country is involved in a "serious negotiation" on what he called a "first step agreement" for limited disarmament.

Could Be Broadened
If such an agreement succeeds, presumably later negotiations could broaden it, perhaps to include limitations on nuclear weapons for the big powers.

One of his aims in talking with Senate leaders obviously was to seek support for the administration's plans as they develop so that if an when a treaty is actually achieved it will have a good prospect for winning the two-thirds Senate vote necessary for American ratification.

Meanwhile, reports available in Washington disclosed the following key points among provisions which the U. S. government would like to see in any such pact:

1. While the basic agreement would be worked out by the five countries meeting at London, provision should be made for other nations to adhere or join the pact. The more countries adhering, the more effective the treaty would be.

2. All the countries joining which do not already have atomic weapons would pledge not to develop or otherwise obtain them. American officials believe that other countries would be willing to accept this restriction in the interest of ending the arms race and devoting their resources to the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Would Reduce Armament
3. The powers would undertake to reduce their present armaments—except for nuclear weapons.

75 At Lisbon Juvenile Session

More Sports Facilities For Youth Proposed

LISBON — Seventy-five persons attended an open meeting at the High School Thursday night on juvenile problems.

The meeting was called by Mayor Wilbur Warren as an aftermath of the county-wide meeting held May 9.

After discussion on a proposed racing drag strip, it was decided that the cost might be out of proportion to the benefits that a few would derive from it. The state patrol's definite "no" answer on the drag strip was criticized by some present who thought it should be talked over with the boys and girls first, to see if the drag strip would be practical.

Rap Indefinite Aid Authority

Seek More Congress Control On Spending

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Senate Democrats predicted today President Eisenhower's foreign aid program will undergo "drastic revision" to give Congress more control over spending abroad.

That view came from senators Mansfield (D-Mont) and Humphrey (D-Minn) as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of which both are members continued public hearings on the $3,865,000,000 program.

The group called Asst. Secretary of Defense Mansfield D. Sprague to learn details of the administration's requests for $1,900,000,000 of military aid and 900 millions of economic support for countries with which the United States has defense pacts.

Both Mansfield and Humphrey spoke favorably of the over-all program, but Mansfield said "there will be changes to assure Congress retains its annual review of the whole program."

Humphrey, referring specifically to a proposed development loan fund, said "the bill must be changed in some way so that Congress will know in advance to what countries and for what purposes the loans are to be made. I know it's a problem," he added, "but we can't give unlimited authority and keep Congress in the dark."

Under Eisenhower's plan, much of the program would be authorized this year on a continuing basis, rather than for a year at a time.

Testifying Thursday, Director John B. Hollister of the International Cooperation Administration urged the committee to approve making future appropriations for military and economic assistance available for "obligation indefinitely."

This ran into a storm of opposition from Sen. Morse (D-Ore) as well as criticism from Humphrey and Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Nine Americans Hurt; Embassy Is Ravaged

Chinese Angered By Freeing of Yank Who Shot 'Peeping Tom'

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chinese mobs went on an anti-American rampage today, ravaging the U.S. Embassy and information office, besieging a military headquarters and chasing Americans on the street.

Nine Americans were injured. The American flag was hauled down from the embassy flagpole and torn to shreds.

Thousands of Chinese, worked up to a frenzy by the acquittal of a U.S. Army sergeant who killed a Chinese peeping tom, stormed the embassy, and spent most of the afternoon tossing broken furniture and torn documents through the windows.

100 Americans Besieged
The disorders spread and the mobs tried to invade the U.S. military communications center in the Sugar Building. About 100 Americans slammed down the storm gate and were besieged inside.

Another mob assaulted the U.S. Information Service office and ransacked it in the same pattern as at the embassy. Furniture, papers, typewriters and equipment were wrecked and tossed out of the windows.

About 1,000 demonstrators formed before a police station in downtown Taipei.

Informed sources said Chinese authorities were preparing to proclaim a state of siege or a curfew as a result of the worst anti-American disorders since Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek escaped here with the remnants of his Nationalist forces in 1949.

U.S. authorities advised all American personnel to stay indoors. The British consul issued similar advice to Britons.

Defense Lines Set Up
Tonight three lines of defense were set up around the American Embassy—military police in a hand-to-hand chain in the outer ring, civilian police in a middle cordon and troops in an inside line. White armored cars were stationed at strategic points. Guards were rushed to other American installations and to American homes, especially in outlying areas.

Two of the Americans injured in the attack on the embassy were hospitalized. They were the press attache, Alexander Boase, who was seriously but not critically beaten, and Security Officer Carl Ackerman who was hit on the head but not seriously injured. Marine Sgt. William Sutton was sent home after receiving six stitches.

Other embassy personnel injured were Counselor Paul Meyer, cuts and bruises; Helen Vosolka, roughed up; Administrative Officer Howard Chaille, and Messenger Frank Nesci, both slight injuries.

Personnel At Lunch
Most of the embassy personnel were away for lunch at the time of the attack and those inside avoided more serious injury by taking refuge in the air raid shelter.

Most Americans encountering the mobs in the streets escaped, but two airline employees were reported to have been beaten when they came out of a restaurant in Taipei.

The riots started after M. Sgt. Robert R. Reynolds of Colorado, Md., and Coatesville, Pa. — the man whose acquittal stirred the trouble—had left with his wife and 7-year-old daughter by chartered plane for Manila.

... But Never Brothers

It was May when the battle-weary men began to reach home in 1865. Memorial Day could not have been given a more appropriate date than May 30.

Memories of mud, blood and misery were crowded out by the beauty of the hawthorns and the perfume of the blooms on May apples.

The world was the way it should be when hatred subsides — fresh and new. The Johnny Rebs had been allowed to keep their horses for the late planting. In the North, there was still time for a crop of corn if a man hurried.

The war had been bitter but the world was sweet. Its scars were covered by the healing grass, as the scars on men's minds were covered by brotherly love.

There are people today who would make it appear that the Boys in Blue and the Boys in Gray somehow have been cheated of their repose in history by the presence of North-South issues in American life.

They have not been cheated. The issue they settled for all time nearly a century ago was whether or not there could be fighting between brothers in America.

That cannot happen again. In America, brothers argue. But they do not fight. They fight only against the common enemies.

Multi-Billion Rumor

The rumor that something is stirring in disarmament negotiations could make all budget cuts to date look like trifles.

It is agreed there is only one way to make the kind of cuts that would add up to substantial tax relief — in security spending.

The only way cuts could be made in security spending without stirring doubts about security would be through mutual agreement with Russia. And the only way there could be mutual agreement with Russia would be through mutual desire for armament relief.

This may be the word that Harold E. Stassen has brought back from disarmament meetings in London. Russia is known to be humping itself to stay in the armaments race it is running with the United States. It can be no secret to the Kremlin that the United States is growing restless about the inflationary pressure of a budget that has been made unwieldy by military costs.

Anything at this time which held out even a faint hope of a letup in military spending would have a profound impact on conditions here and in the Soviet Union.

Mr. Stassen's job in the Eisenhower administration is to advise the White House continuously about disarmament. The advice apparently is aimed toward a potential easing of the armament burden — the foremost problem of the times.

Call For Volunteers

This is the session of the Ohio General Assembly that went to the dogs.

But it went with dignity, both for the legislators and the dogs. The problem of how to provide dogs for medical research without "dogsnapping" was tackled realistically and settled efficiently.

The obvious source of supply was unwanted dogs destroyed in dog pounds. The obvious way to tap this supply was through legislative action because dog pounds operate under state law.

Fortunately, the expected storm of protest was weathered by heavy majorities in both houses of the General Assembly. It is our belief that Ohio dogs will be safer under the terms of the measures adopted in the Ohio House and Senate than they have been before.

Only unwanted dogs that would be destroyed anyway can be claimed, and no claim can be admitted until owners have had plenty of time to track down their missing pets if they have been taken to the pound.

Is there an admirer of dogs who would deny they would cheerfully volunteer themselves for medical research if they knew they were needed?

You Fight It

There are times when silence might be the strongest comment anyone could make about Ohio weather.

But when these times occur—and the last few days of mist-like rain frequently turning to downpours have been such a time—there is an urge to say something memorable about an intolerable condition. Insulting remarks are in order.

The London correspondent of The New York Times obviously felt this way recently about the weather in Great Britain. In an article warning tourists what to be braced for in advance if they came to Britain this summer, he wrote this trenchant paragraph:

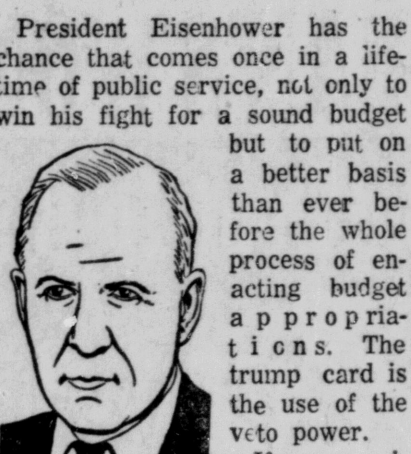

"The only way to come to terms with British weather is to imitate the British and fight it. They swim in water that would chill a polar bear. They play golf on days reserved elsewhere for turning out the attic. When it is not actually raining, they say the day is 'fine.'"

There are times when Ohioans must stand and fight, too.

Eisenhower's Trump

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Use Of Veto Would Put Budget Vote On Record

David Lawrence

President Eisenhower has the chance that comes once in a lifetime of public service, not only to win his fight for a sound budget but to put on a better basis than ever before the whole process of enacting budget appropriations. The trump card is the use of the veto power.

If a president considers that in an appropriation bill some items are too high and others are inadequate, he has the right under the Constitution to veto the entire measure.

Then it has to be acted on again by its proponents and they must mobilize a two-thirds vote of both houses to override the veto.

This means that members of Congress who may have been able to hide behind a voice vote on the original bill must go on record in a formal roll call when voting to sustain or to override a presidential veto.

This, of course, gives the people back home the necessary information as to where their representatives stood on the issue.

The over-all veto, which is the only leverage upon Congress a president possesses on money items, has seldom been used in connection with appropriation bills.

WITH ALL THE TALK of the decline of a president's power in his second term, there is nothing which could so promptly restore it to full vigor as a judicious use of the veto. If it's wrong for Congress to enact one section of a bill, it is right for the president to say so and to decline to sign the whole thing.

If Congress, despite the objections raised, wishes to re-enact the measure over the veto, it is free to do so but the dispute is thereby dramatized and the country can decide at the polls — as, for instance, in the November 1958 congressional elections — whether the President or the member of Congress who voted against him is right.

The President can argue that, since he is by the Constitution vested with the obligation to conduct foreign relations, adequate funds must be appropriated for national defense, for mutual security and for an international information program.

He could request more or less for individual items but Congress would have to bear the responsibility for the final action taken, either by sustaining the veto and enacting a new bill or by overriding the veto and enacting the same bill into law.

This would naturally mean compromises and readjustments so as to win presidential approval.

THE NEED for use of the veto was stressed by Woodrow Wilson in his book on "Constitutional Government," published in 1908. He wrote that, since a president of the United States "is the representative of no constituency but of the whole people," he has the duty to use the veto power. Mr. Wilson said of the powers of a president: "His is the vital place of action in the system, whether he accept it as such or not and the office is the measure of the man — of his wisdom as well as of his force. His veto abundantly equips him to stay the hand of Congress when he will. It is seldom possible to pass a measure over his veto, and no president has hesitated to use the veto when his own judgment of the public good was seriously at issue with that of the houses."

Two television addresses on the budget by President Eisenhower may or may not have aroused a favorable response by the country, because here is no way to measure immediately whether the chief executive has public opinion with him.

A VETO, however, of each appropriation bill that seems to the president inadequate can soon indicate — when the roll call to sustain or override is taken — what the congressmen at least sense public opinion to be.

It can foretell what many of them may be up against when the President enters the 1958 and 1960 campaigns to defend the record of his administration.

There has been a movement in recent years urging the adoption of a constitutional amendment that would give presidents the right to veto individual items in appropriation bills.

Sen. Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia has been one of the champions of the proposed reform. But the same result can be accomplished without a constitutional amendment if Congress would put in the preamble of every appropriation bill a formal declaration that each numbered item or paragraph is to be considered as a separate piece of legislation and subject to presidential veto, just the same as in any other action of Congress whereby bills are approved jointly by both houses.

The argument for the right to veto individual items is that there are some things of which a president may disapprove and yet he cannot at present single them out for separate action because they are all combined in a single piece of legislation.

OFTEN MONEY items of doubtful wisdom are inserted deliberately by Congress, which knows that a president must take the good with the bad.

But it may be that the power of a president is even greater when he decides to reject an entire measure that Congress puts up to him on an "all or none" basis.

He can turn the tables and say, in effect: "Amend certain items or you'll get none." The pressure, especially from the friends of beneficiaries of the legislation, that would then arise from all sides to get some kind of bill enacted would lead inevitably to an equitable compromise.

Annie Get The Gun

By TRUMAN TWILL

Annie, the St. Bernard defendant in a sheep-killing case in Kenton, may be as guilty as sin. But the fact remains no one saw Annie kill any sheep. She is a victim of circumstantial evidence.

It was exactly this sort of thing that was written about here a few weeks ago — the effrontery of convicting dumb animals on the say-so of flighty-brained and sometimes malicious human beings.

Circumstantial evidence is a darned poor way to reach any kind of a decision about wrongdoing. Take the matter of the garbage.

Nothing infuriates dwellers in Rosy Fingered Dawn like the practice of dumping trash along highways. Whenever a pile of this of-fal shows up, a mental image of the culprit is conjured up.

He is a beady-eyed, dirty rat in a dilapidated jalopy, and he has driven all the way to the country to toss out his little reminder that he, too, must eat and have little pleasures that add up to a cartload of trash.

What he deserves for this dirty insult is a rifle bullet planted in a tire, or preferably in the honeycombing of his jalopy's radiator. All he gets, with far too rare exceptions, is a vindictive thought.

This was what happened when packages of garbage began to appear in the lane leading from the main road to the Twillery — vindictive thoughts. Nothing would be too bad for the kind of person who would turn off the road to desecrate a quiet rural lane. But no one ever saw him do it.

Then the circumstantial evidence began to come apart at the seams. Packages of garbage appeared in the yard and garden.

The explanation came to light one morning when the senior setter of the Irish couple at the Twillery was encountered in the lane, holding his head high because he was carrying a package of garbage by a string tied loosely around it.

He had been lugging home these treasures off and on for two years. The reason they usually were found in the lane was because that was where the string usually broke. But no one ever thought he was the guilty one.

The packages in the yard and garden had been tied better; that accounted for them. It was not a beady-eyed city rat in a dilapidated jalopy at all. It was a brown-eyed setter with the demeanor of a parson and the best intentions in the world.

He had a weakness for packages of garbage.

Annie may have been disposed of by the executioners hell-bent in destroying her by the time this gets into print. But it would be a sound idea to see how a dog reacts to sheep before executing one on circumstantial evidence. It is so easy to goof when the victim cannot talk, and goofing comes so easy to so many men who are not happy unless passing judgment on somebody.

Beck Case Put Heat On AFL-CIO

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some leaders of the AFL-CIO — which this week bounced Dave Beck from its list of vice presidents on a charge of misusing the union's funds — were asked a question.

Did they have doubts about Beck, president of the Teamsters' Union, before the Senate Rackets Committee investigated him and — if so — why didn't they act before the committee revealed his handling of the Teamsters' funds?

Only one — George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Clerks — gave a positive answer on the record. He said he had had doubts, but only because of gossip and not because of anything he knew as a fact.

When asked why he didn't do something about it, he said: "Who, me? I don't have and the AFL-CIO doesn't have power like the Senate committee to subpoena Beck's books."

One very important AFL-CIO leader, not wanting to be quoted by name, said he had not been suspicious of Beck's financial dealings. But he repeated what Harrison said about lack of power in the AFL-CIO to demand Beck's books.

He noted that even the Senate committee, which did have subpoena authority, could not make Beck disclose his records. Two other leaders would say only "no comment" to questions.

These were Jacob S. Potofsky, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and A. J. Hayes, president of the Machinists. Like Harrison, they are on the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee now investigating union corruption.

The AFL-CIO, which merged in December 1955, is now a union in itself. It is made up of unions which formerly were in the AFL or CIO. It has about 15 million members. The AFL dates back to the 19th century, the CIO to the mid-1930's.

The Ethical Practices Committee, created through the merger, got started in the corruption investigating field in 1956.

Before the merger the CIO had thrown out 11 Communist-dominated unions. But the AFL had a long record of reluctance about investigating its member unions or tossing them out.

The AFL was run by its Executive Council, made up of the presidents of the member unions. They and their unions stiff-armed any interference with their internal affairs from the AFL.

These AFL union presidents dominated the long-time AFL president, William Green, a nice, mild old man who made pious speeches but whose hands were tied by the council.

One high official in the old AFL, speaking frankly about the pre-merger days, recently told this writer: the CIO had long held its nose when it looked at the AFL and used a word: "corruption."

George Meany, now president of the combined AFL-CIO, for years had been AFL secretary-treasurer under Green. When the latter died in 1952, Meany succeeded to the AFL presidency.

His hand-in dealing with the problem of corruption — was strengthened when the CIO joined forces with the AFL. Walter Reuther, former CIO president and now AFL-CIO vice president, insisted, as part of the price of merging, that action against corruption would be guaranteed.

Many of the old AFL presidents and the old CIO presidents now sit together on the AFL-CIO executive council.

But before the merger, and within less than a year after becoming AFL president, Meany headed the AFL crackdown on the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA). This was after the New York Crime Commission disclosed corruption and racketeering in the ILA. The AFL threw the longshoremen out.

Within a year after the AFL-CIO merger, action began against corruption, alleged or real. Since the 1955 merger the AFL-CIO has done this:

In 1956 it began digging into charges of corruption in four unions — the bakery, industrial, laundry and distillery workers.

Thursday the laundry workers were suspended and ordered to clean house or face expulsion by December. At the same time Thursday the AFL-CIO executive council placed the distillery and industrial workers unions on probation.

The Senate disclosures about Beck put the heat on the AFL-CIO, as it never had been put on before, to clean its house and its stables.

Inefficiency In Schools

By RAYMOND MOLEY

The next Governors' Conference, to be held in Williamsburg, Va., in late June, will attack a long neglected problem now made acute because of the demand by the President for federal aid for school construction.

That hitherto neglected subject is the more efficient use of the school facilities already in existence.

A solution to the problem presented by the multiplication of children of school age since the war has been recognized in a few communities but there has been little recognition of it in the administration's pleas for a federal program of construction.

VARIOUS ARTICLES I have written opposing the President's plan have elicited a number of angry letters from school administrators, questioning the competence of a mere writer of columns to pass upon weighty matters with which they are struggling.

I therefore ask the indulgence of a personal allusion to a bit of my own experience in the very considerable number of years in which I taught school in practically all ranges of that calling.

I had attained, at the age of 22, the exalted position of "superintendent" of a village school. In addition to a heavy teaching load, I "superintended" three other teachers. My salary was $70 a month for nine months.

The village was surrounded by a township which had a school system with four one-room schools and one two-room school.

The township school board was in need of a "superintendent," and I was asked to take the job at a rate of $10 a month. I said I could do it if the township would arrange to have sessions on Saturdays and holidays on Mondays.

THE BOARD agreed, and I then began to work six days a week, which has been my custom ever since. There seemed to be no hardship for the children. They found Mondays just as enjoyable as Saturdays. I had more money to spend and it was more efficiently used. This, of course, was not a solution for a classroom shortage. It was the more efficient use of an ambitious teacher. The principle would be the same in the use of school buildings.

If a business should use its buildings and equipment at the low level now enjoyed by the public schools, it would certainly fail.

This is an age in which business success, as well as the growth of the national product, depends upon the more and more efficient use of human energy and materials and equipment.

Automation is just another word for efficient management.

Why, considering the terrific burden of military defense, should not the school administrators break through the encrustation of tradition and habit, and stop running to Washington for aid?

THE GOVERNORS in June will face this problem squarely. The Council of State Governments has prepared for the conference a most interesting memorandum to be used as the basis of the governors' discussions.

Several alternative suggestions are made for the more efficient use of school facilities.

One would be to add a summer term to the present curriculum.

Another would establish four quarters in the calendar year, with a quarter of the pupils on vacation in each three-month period.

A third would extend the school year to ten and one-half months for all children.

Any of these plans would not only solve the classroom shortage for years to come but provide for teachers an opportunity for full employment with more pay.

Thought For Today

For there is no remembrance of the wise more than of the fool for ever; seeing that which now is in the days to come shall all be forgotten. And how dieth the wise man? As the fool. — Ecclesiastes 2:16.

When we leave this world, and are laid in the earth, the prince walks as narrow a path as the day-laborer. — Miguel Cervantes.

Thoughts On The Mayflower

A duplicate of the Mayflower, which carried the Pilgrims to the "stern and rockbound coast" of America is nearing Plymouth, Mass., for ceremonies commemorating and glorifying the courage, sacrifices and struggles of the rugged first settlers, many of whom died in the first terrible winter.

It will be a wonderful thing provided modern Americans, knowing every luxury, surrounded by protections and speeding over super highways in de luxe chariots find time to slow down and pay attention.

CONSIDER THESE FIRST Americans! When they landed in a wilderness the reception committee was made up of Indians with tomahawks instead of confetti. They were in mortal danger at all times and couldn't blame a government. The only social security they knew anything about rested in their own character.

Their "Fair Deal" lay in toil and fortitude. The only "SUBSIDY" a Pilgrim knew came from his own stout heart.

"Supports" and "ceilings" were words that had reference only to the construction of log cabins. They didn't think they were "under privileged" except when being chased through a forest by howling Redskins or forced to add more water to the squirrel soup.

A foremost protection rested in a keen eye leveled along a gun barrel. They looked for "relief" from Providence alone.

WHILE THE MODERN American keeps his mind on pension rights, the Pilgrim Fathers kept their minds on retaining their scalps.

If they put out a mailbox they knew they would find nothing in them but Indian threats, not weekly checks.

They never heard of "incentive pay" and if they needed incentives to do their best work they would have found them in the presence of arrowheads in a cabin wall, the howl of blizzards and the problem of getting one decent meal per day.

The only time an American sees an Indian today he is in another auto.

MR. AMERICA, 1957 MODEL, is no bargain compared to a Pilgrim Father. If he finds himself in a desolate place he shouts for federal aid.

All he knows about a wilderness is what he sees between fancy motels and hotdog stands.

He fills the air with demands for shorter hours, fewer working days, more holidays, greater coffee breaks and more security all around.

Those Mayflower men were satisfied if they got through a year with nobody in the family tomahawked.

"WHY DOES SHE SIT on top of the piano so much?" a little girl asked when watching the Helen Morgan story on TV. "Because," replied daddy, "It's so hard to do it on a violin or cello."

Emil Lence, a ladies' garment maker, staging a heavyweight championship bout this summer, looks like the foremost challenger to Jim Norris International Boxing Club. . . Maybe the feeling is that he can dress up the ugly looking cauliflower ear game so it will look like a Paris import.

Army's 'Hush Hush' Action May Have Caused Furor Over Shooting Of Japanese Woman

TOKYO (AP) — William Girard expected to be home in northern Illinois today, perhaps with a Japanese bride.

Instead the tall, blond, 22-year-old soldier from Ottawa-LaSalle is accused of firing a freak shot that killed a Japanese woman and touched off a quarrel clouding American-Japanese relations.

Mrs. Naka Sakai died last January on a U. S. Army firing range where she was scavenging scrap metal to eke out a living. She had been hit by an empty cartridge casing stuffed into the muzzle of a grenade launcher of a rifle and propelled by a blank cartridge charge in the chamber of the rifle.

Restricted To Army Base

Since then, Girard has been restricted to his Army base at Camp Whittington, 60 miles north of Tokyo. The only outsiders known to have seen him have been Japanese police and his 27-year-old Japanese fiancée, freckled Haru Sueyama.

Army officials have quoted Girard as saying he "may" have fired the shot that killed the woman.

Japanese police say he said he fired only as a warning to scrap collectors to get off the range, that he did not aim at anyone.

Army buddies describe Girard as a "good soldier." Japanese who know him call him "a nice man who liked Japanese people and who would not hurt anyone on purpose."

The shooting was followed by only small items on inside pages of Tokyo papers, saying a woman had been killed.

The second day after the shooting the Army prepared a routine announcement in response to queries, naming Girard and saying proper punishment would be meted out if warranted by investigation. It was the kind of announcement that would be made promptly in the United States.

Announcement Not Issued

But the announcement never was issued. Officers who cannot be named say someone panicked at Army headquarters and ordered nothing said about the case.

Flooded with queries from Japanese and American newsmen, the Army began to pass the buck from command to command. Finally the Far East Command ordered a blackout policy and ordered queries from throughout Japan referred to Supreme Headquarters, where the reply was generally "no comment."

Eventually, the Japanese press leaped on the case as a cause.

Villagers, who constantly visit ranges to collect scrap metal, were quoted as saying Mrs. Sakai was enticed onto the range and Girard deliberately fired at her.

Angry editorials followed, leftists took up the cry. Parliament made it an issue. Internal political expediency dictated that Japan demand the right to try the soldier from Illinois.

Pressured By Outcry

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, pressured by the outcry, told Parliament: "Japan can't stomach this."

The U. S.—Japanese agreement on jurisdiction over American servicemen provides for a Japanese trial only when the alleged offender acts while off U. S. premises and off duty. But one clause gives Japanese judges the right to decide whether the GI was on or off duty.

Demanding that Girard be turned over for a Japanese trial, Japan invoked that clause for the first time in the more than 14,000 times U. S. servicemen have been accused of breaking Japanese law. Japan has claimed jurisdiction in approximately 460 cases and has actually tried about 435. Japanese records indicate only 89 were convicted.

While negotiations over Girard went on, the furor gradually subsided. Then U. S. military officials in Japan announced last week that the Japanese would try the soldier.

Erupted In Protest

Members of Congress and others back home erupted in protest. Sen. Butler (D-Md) called it an agreement "to throw an American soldier to the wolves." U. S. Defense Secretary Wilson ordered the Army to hold on to Girard pending a complete review of the case.

Japanese editorial writers went into action again, angrily accusing the United States of breaking faith. They renewed their attacks on Girard personally, on U. S. Army bases in Japan, on the Army, and on America.

Others counseled both Japan and America to keep cool and to avoid an international wrangle.

ROMANCE? — Sonali Das Gupta, 27, above, has been romantically linked with Italian film director Roberto Rossellini, husband of star Ingrid Bergman. She is married to an Indian film director and is the mother of two small children. The Indian government has refused her a passport after it was rumored that Rossellini intended to take her to Italy.

that would harm both countries.

The big Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri predicted "stepped-up anti-American feelings" and increased demands for revision of the U. S.—Japan joint security agreement if Girard is not brought to Japanese trial. Later the paper referred to Girard as a "mad soldier... who killed Japanese for fun."

Says Woman Was 'Lured'
The Tokyo Shimbun, with a circulation of one million, said Japan should not give up "the right to try this outrageous soldier" and repeated the contention that Girard had "lured" the woman into a spot where she could be killed.

The million-circulation Sankei-Jiji, however, predicted the controversy would be amicably settled by "calm and businesslike" negotiations "after a cooling-off period." It counseled its readers to remember that the present "American public uproar (for Girard) is sentimental, just as the earlier Japanese public uproar (against Girard) was sentimental."

Meanwhile, Girard remains restricted to his base more than a month after he expected to return to the United States — caught in the middle of an international controversy aggravated by bad handling.

Could Have Been Awarded
Americans who watched the case from the start are convinced the situation could have been largely avoided if the Army had not clammed up in the beginning, or had quickly summoned a court-martial to determine Girard's responsibility in the shooting.

Japanese court officials meanwhile insisted they were going ahead with plans to try Girard under Japanese law on a charge of "inflicting bodily injury resulting in death." The maximum penalty is 15 years.

No matter how the dispute turns out, America has already lost some of the goodwill it has been trying to build in Japan. It stood to lose more if it refused to give trial jurisdiction to Japan. But that could strike a heavy blow at the morale of American servicemen here and elsewhere overseas.

TO OPEN HEARINGS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) announced Thursday it will reopen hearings on an application by American Airlines to operate non-stop between Louisville and Washington. The CAB said it has not acted on a request by Columbus, Ohio, for improved and expanded east-west air service.

Scouters Honored At Annual Awards Dinner

Two area men were awarded the Silver Beaver, a national scouting honor recognizing outstanding service to boyhood, during the annual Columbiana Boy Scout Council appreciation dinner Thursday night at Leetonia High School. About 250 attended.

The awards went to Eugene Seeley of Chester, W. Va., southern district commissioner, and Jack Glover of Wellsville, scoutmaster of Troop 19. This is the first time in the history of the Council two such awards have been made in one year.

Seeley, a ceramic chemist at the Harker Pottery Co., has served as a cubmaster, neighborhood commissioner, assistant and district commissioner and has completed courses in commissioner's work, scout-master's work and outdoor skills. The awards were presented by a court headed by Russell Barrow of Columbiana, chairman of the council awards committee.

Training Awards Given
Training awards went to Donald Mayer of Hanover Township, Paul W. Garrett of Salem, Frank W. Snowden of East Liverpool, Murray Peters of East Palestine, D. F. Ashhead, Jayne Shoop, Alice Decrow, Ardena McLaughlin, all of Salem, David Elphinstone of Chester, Charles R. Thompson of Hanover Township, Colin Brown of Wellsville and Fred Yonz, Robert Swan and David Fugate, all of East Liverpool.

Francis H. Lang of East Liverpool, council commissioner, presented council awards to Charles McBride and Fred Lawrence, both of East Liverpool, Mrs. Shoop, Mrs. McLaughlin and Robert Potter of Salem and Robert Maurer of Columbiana.

Calvin Filler of Salem, Seeley and Lang were cited for attending a national training session in New Jersey.

John Pinney, council president, presided and gave recognition to all scoutmasters, cubmasters, explorer advisers, den mothers, commissioners and committee.

Frank W. Braden, scout executive of the Greater Cleveland Council, was guest speaker. The boy scout movement "is the champion of boyhood in America," he said, pointing out it reaches about four million boys a year.

He cited the scoutmasters, cubmasters and explorer advisers as the "top men" in the movement. "The hope of youth is in scouting," Braden declared.

Arthur Thomas, editor of the East Liverpool Review, received a certificate of service, presented to a person not registered in scouting who has made a contribution to the movement.

were proposed. The Lisbon Youth Center was described as too small to permit activities such as ping-pong, shuffle board, dancing and other games. It was also brought out that the center, located at the high school, was open only three nights a week.

Mrs. Clyde Lewis, secretary, said she thought that when the center was on N. Market St. and the boys and girls had to do all the work, they seemed to appreciate it more.

It was suggested that the youth could put on water shows at the swimming pool this summer and it was also proposed that they hold record hops.

Discussions also centered on job opportunities in Lisbon and vicinity and the possibility of the young people setting up their own employment service.

A young people's code of ethics was discussed.

Ed Kauffman presided at last night's meeting. A future meeting was planned. Among those who will attend are: Mrs. Richard Bloor and Mrs. Dorelle McCann, Parent Teachers Association presidents; Ross Ludwig, Boy Scouts; Charles Pike, Rotary Club president; John Keichum, chairman of Kiwanis Club's boys and girls committee; R. Dale Miller, Ruritan Club; Tony Zitto, Lion's Club; Mrs. Clyde Lewis, Youth Center; Mrs. Al Hartman, Legion Auxiliary; Kathryn McKee, V.F.W. Auxiliary; Ptl. Leon Zahradnick, police; C. O. ## Council the district. Its purpose will be that of publicizing the advantages of why industry should consider Salem and area as a location for new development.

A meeting is planned of the officers and board of directors with the Salem Chamber of Commerce officers and board members.

A few projects which members expressed that may be considered as initial work included zoning, fire protection, community pride, and new roads. The council felt they should not delve into controversial subjects as their first projects.

The council plans a fall dinner meeting which will include a prominent guest speaker.

A questionnaire is to be sent to each organized group in Salem and the surrounding five townships. These townships are Salem, Green, Goshen, Perry, and Butler.

HUNSTON EXPLAINED that the board of directors will include committee chairmen of the following committees. These chairmen will be appointed at a later date. They are: finance, planning, industrial site, survey, public relations, tax, screening, labor, and an executive committee.

Hunston, as president of the Salem Civic Committee, was authorized in early March to proceed with the naming of a steering committee for the Salem Area Development Council.

Initial plans for the formation of such a council were first originated last Feb. 27 when some 65 township trustees, Civic Committee members, and other interested people met in the Public Library.

New Pennsylvania Turnpike Approved

SHARON, Pa. — A 300-million dollar 300-mile-long turnpike across Pennsylvania, with the western terminal at the Ohio line near here was placed on the federal highway program today.

Federal Highway Administrator B. D. Tallamy notified Pennsylvania Highway Secretary Joseph J. Lawler at Harrisburg that the long-discussed Keystone shortway, with Sharon in the west and Stroudsburg in the east as the terminal points, had been given federal approval.

Tallamy added a juncture between Pennsylvania and Ohio will have to be arranged as the new Pennsylvania turnpike must be linked with the Ohio Turnpike in the Youngstown area.

The Sharon - Stroudsburg Turnpike, providing the shortest route across Pennsylvania, would be north of the present turnpike.

While no route has been announced it is believed the new highway will pass near Mercer, Clarion, DuBois, Lock Haven, Berwick and then go to the Stroudsburg area.

18,000 Persons Hear Graham Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — Mixed motives today are bringing thousands of New Yorkers to hear the gospel preached — many of whom haven't been inside a church in years.

The man behind the pulpit is Billy Graham, but he himself says his only message is the Bible, and every minister has one. So what is it that brings those who usually aren't interested in the subject? You get all kinds of answers from the assorted people flocking to Madison Square Garden nightly — 18,000 of them Thursday night — but the most frequently heard reasons are these:

1. The possibility of resolving some inner problem.
2. Curiosity.
3. Invited by a friend.
4. Desire to demonstrate support for the crusade.

Out of Graham's huge congregation Thursday night, 765 of them filed to the front of the arena in his concluding appeal to "humbly surrender your life to Christ."

This brought the total of such decisions in nine nights to 5,835.

Faces Sentence On Manslaughter Count

COSHOCTON, Ohio (AP) — Robert E. Ishmael, 28, of Coshocton will be sentenced Tuesday for first degree manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting Feb. 16 of his father, John, 46.

Common Pleas Judge Lloyd S. Leach set the date Thursday after a jury of 9 men and 3 women returned the guilty verdict. First degree manslaughter carries a penalty of 1-20 years in prison.

Police said Ishmael shot his father at the home of Everett Moore in nearby Roscoe after a drinking party.

HELD FOR ROBBERY

MAGNOLIA, Miss (AP) — George C. Brinard, 18, Youngstown, Ohio, is one of six Lake Charles, La., Air Force Base airmen ordered held without bond for the October circuit court grand jury on armed robbery charges. Pike County Judge H. L. Simmons entered the order Wednesday. The six are charged with robbing two service stations and a store.

KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Walter S. Shiffer, about 50, vice president in charge of engineering at Talon, Inc., here, was killed early today in an auto-truck crash on Rt. 322 about four miles west of Meadville.

The driver of the truck, Fred Akers, Youngstown, Ohio, said he vainly tried to pull the truck off the road but that Shiffer's car smashed into his heavy vehicle and careened into a tree. Akers was not hurt.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — The Geauga County grand jury, convening Wednesday, will get the case of Robert W. Cummings, 40, charged with embezzling $28,885 from a branch bank he managed. Cummings was freed under $10,000 bond in Montville justice of the peace court Thursday after pleading guilty to the embezzlement charge.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Treatment of Bursitis

There have been no new remarkable developments in understanding the cause or treatment of bursitis, but I continually receive questions on this subject. The reason is bursitis is a common, distressing and often long-lasting disorder. There are constantly a great many people suffering from bursitis.

The disease gets its name from inflammation of a bursa, which is any small pocket lying near one of the movable joints of the body. These pockets are lined by delicate tissues which may become inflamed.

Among the best known bursas, and those most likely to become inflamed (bursitis), are those around the elbows, shoulders and knees, though there are bursas in other locations.

Bursitis often begins suddenly and without warning. In such cases the involved cavity is likely to be swollen and to contain a fluid, the nature of which depends on the cause.

Acute or subacute bursitis is associated with tenderness and pain. In the more chronic varieties in which the fluid develops gradually and stays a long time, discomfort may be entirely absent. Diagnosis in such cases may involve some difficulties.

The most common cause of inflammation of bursitis are single severe injuries or lesser but repeated ones. Kneeling for a long time may affect a bursa just above the knee — sometimes called "housemaid's knee." In "tennis elbow," a bursa around the elbow is involved.

The treatment of an inflamed bursa depends partly on the cause and partly on the severity and type of inflammation. In the more acute cases complete rest by means of a splint, bandage, or plaster of Paris cast is generally advised.

that almost all make a good recovery eventually, unless they continue to injure or irritate the inflamed bursa.

Dynamite Cap Blast

Is Fatal To Girl, 13

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Injuries suffered in the explosion of an electric dynamite cap at her home were fatal Thursday night to 13-year-old Jean Beverly Hollander, Youngstown, who died in South Side Hospital. Police said the explosion occurred Wednesday night when the girl plugged the fuse into an electric outlet. Her brother Pat, 14, told officers the fuse was one he had brought home from a construction site.

2,200 TO BE LAID OFF

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Some 2,200 employees of Frigidaire Division of General Motors Corp. will be laid off at the end of May "as a result of reduced sales in appliance industries," the company announced Wednesday. The firm normally employs more than 16,000 persons.

1,200 High School Athletes Vie In Meet Today, Saturday

Eye Records Set By Owens and Kleinhans

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Almost a quarter-century has passed since Jesse Owens, the greatest track athlete of them all, wrote his indelible name into Ohio's high school record books.

Big Ten Baseball Race Heads Into Final Weekend

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten baseball race headed into the final weekend of play today with Michigan in the top spot, but the Wolverines' position is a little shaky. Several other teams are in a position to take the title, but there are a lot of "ifs."

For instance, even if Michigan (7-3) wins its last three games, it would wind up with a conference percentage of .769.

Northwestern (4-2) could grab the title by sweeping its three games, for a percentage of .778.

Michigan plays host to Michigan State today and then moves over to MSU for a doubleheader Saturday.

Other title contenders would wind up this way by winning their last three games: Purdue .750, Illinois and Iowa .727, and Minnesota .692. Purdue now has a 3-2 record, Illinois 5-3, Iowa 5-3 and Minnesota 6-4.

On the basis of mathematics, Purdue could conceivably get the title by winning its three games and Michigan dropping one.

Other combinations also exist so that by a certain grouping of wins and losses, Illinois and Iowa both have a chance to get the conference title.

Here's the weekend schedule: Today—Northwestern at Illinois, Michigan State at Michigan, Wisconsin at Purdue, Indiana at Minnesota and Ohio State at Iowa.

Saturday—Wisconsin at Illinois (2), Northwestern at Purdue (2), Michigan at Michigan State (2), Indiana at Iowa (2) and Ohio State at Minnesota (2).

Revere, Mass. — Dick Hall, 162½, Boston, outpointed Andres Gonzales, 160, Havana, 8.

Redlegs Defeat Cardinals 6-2

Victory Hikes NL Lead To 2 Games

CINCINNATI (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbets may have been thinking about last Sunday when the ninth inning rolled around in Thursday night's game with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Southpaw Don Gross had stifled the Cards with three hits for eight innings and the Reds had a comfortable 6-1 lead. Three quick St. Louis hits produced a run and had two men on with two out.

It was then that Tebbets' thumbel Tom to the showers and sent in Tom Acker to retire the side and give the Reds a 6-2 triumph.

In a similar situation Sunday, Tebbets stayed too long with pitcher Brooks Lawrence. The Pittsburgh Pirates scored five runs after two were out to tie the score and force the Reds to go into extra innings to win.

The victory Thursday night boosted Cincinnati's lead in the National League to two games over Milwaukee, which was idle.

It was Gross' fourth straight pitching triumph of the season without a defeat. He now has a string of seven straight victories, counting his 3-0 record with Cincinnati last year.

For eight innings the 25-year-old southpaw was superb. Except for Stan Musial's home run in the fourth he never had trouble with the usually hard-hitting Cards. He fanned six and didn't walk a man.

The Reds did most of their damage in a five-run outburst in the third off starter Lindy McDaniel. It included a two-run homer by Wally Post, also had a single and a double. He drove in three runs.

Alvin Dark's fumble of Gross' boulder started the Cardinal downfall.

Johnny Temple, trying to sacrifice, forced Gross, but Post followed with his home run. Gus Bell walked and Frank Robinson singled. There was an out and then Ed Bailey doubled Bell home.

McDaniel gave Don Hoak an intentional walk but it backfired as Ray McMillan singled two more runs home.

A walk to Temple, his theft of second, an error and Post's single scored the other Redlegs runs in the sixth off Herman Wehmeier.

The slumping Cardinals shuffled their lineup for the game but it didn't do much good. They benched rookie outfielder Bob Gene Smith and moved Ken Boyer from third base to center field. Rookie Eddie Kasko took over at third.

The second game of the series tonight is due to have Lawrence pitching against the Cards' Sam Jones.

Saturday morning's slate calls for finals in the Class AA broad jump and shot put, and the Class high jump and discus. First of the running events is at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Fourteen events are slated in each division, with the finale scheduled at 4 p.m. While the track events are deciding the big titles, the baseball and tennis teams will be going after the other championships in the 48th annual four-sport spring carnival.

RACING IS CANCELLED
PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The harness racing program at Painesville Raceway was cancelled Thursday night after rain flooded the track.

Big Ten Athletic Leaders Near Accord On Aid Program

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Big Ten athletic leaders today were expected to accept a proposed softening of the conference's controversial new financial aid to athletes program.

The policy-making faculty representatives and athletics directors, in their annual spring meeting, were believed ready to approve changes which will make the program more pleasing to a rebel group.

Northwestern, Minnesota, Iowa and Indiana have contended recently that the new athletic code has left the Big Ten prey to large scale talent raids by outside schools. Illinois, Michigan, Purdue, Michigan State, Ohio State and Wisconsin have not agreed.

The 6-4 margin is the same by which the Big Ten approved the new program last February, but that was before the free-for-all hunt for athletic talent in the Big Ten area.

Basically, the new program allows aid to athletes on proven need and requires financial statements from parents to prove such need. It also prohibits a conference school from making a formal tender of aid to an athlete until June 15.

A prime proposed revision, to be acted upon today or Saturday, would permit granting of academic scholarships in the amount of room, books, tuition and fees.

Such a scholarship would require an athlete to be in the upper third of his high school graduating class and to maintain a B-C average in college.

The new rule, as it stands now, limits scholarship awards, other than on a basis of need, to tuition.

There would be a lot more fireworks on the new code at the current business meeting but for the Big Ten's White resolution, a device which calls for a 60-day cooling off period on new major legislation.

Because of the summer vacation, there can be no invoking of the White resolution between April 1 and Sept. 1. Thus, the new code is destined to get at least a one year trial.

As it stands now, the conference is split down the middle—the "haves" vs the "have nots"—on the new code. The program allows a school to sign a maximum of 100 prep athletes for all sports. This means a lot of sharp book-keeping and policing by Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson.

Two other modifications which may get conference approval include one permitting grants-in-aid to transfers from junior colleges and another allowing coaches to contact athletes who have formally accepted offers of financial aid.

A fourth proposed change would allow for a cost differential in expenses for attending the various Big Ten schools. This change was suggested by Northwestern which has a basic-cost figure of $1,800 yearly—highest in the conference.

Indianapolis Qualifying Session Washed Out

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Indianapolis Motor Speedway's fabulous weather luck (only one 500-mile race in 40 has been postponed) was turning a little sour today.

Rains which washed out the second scheduled qualifying session last Sunday have poured down most of the week. There is a 400-acre mixture of lakes and bogs where some 30,000 autos were parked for last Saturday's time trials. Water oozed through crevices in the track.

Most of the fastest cars among the 54 entrants are ready to run Saturday if weather permits. But most spectators would have to park outside the grounds—possibly miles away—and the gate probably would suffer.

The brick and concrete track itself dries rapidly. The 33-car starting field can be filled easily over the weekend if there are a few hours of running time.

Tribe To Open Series With White Sox

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians open a four-game series with the Chicago White Sox at Municipal Stadium tonight. They open first place in the American League by sweeping the series.

This would be a difficult task as the White Sox are the hottest team in the league with nine straight victories—eight of them on the road.

The Indians are close behind, however, with 10 wins in the last 13 games. The Tribe is now three games behind the Sox.

Bob Lemon is Manager Kervy Farrell's pitching choice for the series opener. Lemon, who has a 3-4 record for the season, will be opposed by southpaw Jack Harshman, who has won three of his four starts.

Seven of the Indians' next nine games will be with the White Sox. The teams meet in a three-game series in Chicago starting Wednesday night after the Tribe plays in Detroit Monday and Tuesday.

Chicago and Cleveland have split in their two meetings this season. Pierce beat Score, 3-2, in the season opener here and Score beat Pierce, 5-0, a week later in Chicago.

Thursday was an open date for all American League teams.

RIVER DOWNS OPENS
CINCINNATI (AP)—River Downs opens its 44-day horse race meeting today with track officials hoping for a break in the weather.

Rain throughout the first part of the week has left the track heavy. There were indications it would be sloppy if there is more rain.

WINS LEBANON RACE
LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Peter Hope reeled off a 2-09 1-5 mile Thursday night as he won the second heat of a $1,000 Class B pace at Lebanon Raceway's harness race meeting.

Betty's Folly, owned by Russell Beatty of Washington Court House, and driven by Hugh Beatty, won the first heat of the event in 2:10-2-5 and paid $8.00, $3.40 and $3.80.

Despite threatening weather a crowd of 1,189 attended and the mutual handle was $43,202.

JUDGE MAY ORDER 'GARDEN' OPENED TO INDEPENDENT FIGHT PROMOTERS

By JOHN CLARY
NEW YORK (AP)—Independent boxing promoters today saw a crack of light in what for many years had been a very black world.

The crack was opened by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan Thursday's hearings in the government's case against the International Boxing Club and Madison Square Garden.

He indicated during testimony by IBC Secretary Truman Gibson that he may direct New York's famous Eighth Avenue sports arena to "open its doors" to independent fight promoters at a fixed, reasonable fee.

The government, in a civil action, is seeking to dissolve the boxing empire of James D. Norris and his associates. Norris, who heads both the Garden and the IBC, his partner Arthur Wirtz, the Garden and the International Boxing Clubs of New York and Chicago are the defendants.

The last time an independent promoter took his show into the Garden was 20 years ago when the late Mike Jacobs staged a Joe Louis-Bob Pastor fight. Subsequently Jacobs and the Garden became partners.

"I am heading in the direction of a decree that will compel Madison Square Garden to lease the Garden to any promoter for a championship fight at a fixed, reasonable rental," Judge Ryan said.

"I have the power to direct that there be a compulsory rental on a reasonable basis and I am inclined to think I should exercise that power," he added.

And if this were not enough to gladden the hearts of the independents, Judge Ryan went on, "and if a promoter cannot get a reasonable basis, he should be able to come to court and ask the court to fix a reasonable rental basis."

This would put teeth in a move to curtail all the IBC's far-flung operations. The judge's comments indicated that such outdoor sites as Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds would also be available for independently promoted championship fights. The IBC has held exclusive contracts to these two sites.

Judge Ryan hinted he is close to a decision before he adjourned proceedings until Wednesday.

Gibson and the government counsel bickered constantly on the position of Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz, and Ryan finally stepped in with the admonishment: "I'm getting to the point where I'm going to decide this case. When we reconvene Wednesday leave your boxing gloves home."

Bob Rosburg Leads In Kansas City Open
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Unorthodox Bob Rosburg is a golfer whose game gets better as the weather grows hotter and he now looks ready to start his usual summer surge toward the top of the professional ranks.

The 30-year-old San Francisco pro, whose "baseball grip" on the clubs would make a duffer shudder, shot a five-under-par 67 over Hillcrest Country Club's hill-and-dale course Thursday to take a shaky lead in the first round of the annual $22,000 Kansas City Open.

Rosburg sank a 15-foot putt for a birdie three on the 18 hole to wrest the lead from Lloyd Mangrum. The 42-year-old Los Angeles veteran finished just a few minutes ahead of Rosburg with a 35-33—68 for the par 36-36—72 course.

Mangrum, who has won this tournament twice, was alone in second place, but 29 other golfers played the 6,668-yard layout in par or better and were close on the heels of the leaders.

Tied for third place with two-under-par 70s were Al Bessellink, Pat Schwab, Billy Maxwell, Tom Nieporte, Ed Furgol, South African Gary Player and defending champion Bo Winger.

Akins Is Favored Over Beecham
WASHINGTON (AP)—Virgil Akins, the St. Louis veteran, was an early 7-5 favorite to defeat Jimmy Beecham of Miami in their 10-round welterweight bout at Capitol Arena tonight.

Support for the 22-year-old Beecham rested on past conquests of the once highly regarded Hector Constance and on recent creditable performances. But it wasn't enough to offset the liking for Akins' experience and punching ability.

Akins, 29, is fourth or fifth ranked challenger for Carmen Basilio's welter crown, depending on whom you consult — Ring Magazine or the National Boxing Association. Beecham is unranked, and a craving for recognition prompted him to take the Akins fight on short notice.

As it finally takes shape, the nationally broadcast and televised (NBC, 9 p.m. EST) fight is a complete replacement for the originally scheduled Paolo Rosi-Joe Lopez lightweight battle. That was wiped out when Rosi hurt a hand several weeks ago.

Akins has 41 victories in a career dating back to 1948.

Akins has stopped 22 of his victims. He's lost 15, two by knock-out, and had one draw.

JETS DROP MARLINS
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Columbus Jets have served notice that they have no intention of being the International League door mat.

After flirting with the cellar during the early part of the season, the Jets today have a 4-game winning streak going following a 1-0 victory over the Miami Marlins in Thursday night's only game.

While handing the Marlins their fifth setback on Don Kildoo's fourth pitching, the Jets moved into a tie with Havana for fifth place.

Hitting Wally Post, Redlegs—drove in three runs with three hits, one his fifth home run, as Cincinnati regained two-game lead in the National League by beating Cardinals for 19th victory in last 22 games.

MINOSO HOLDS ONE RECORD HE WOULD LIKE TO GIVE UP
NEW YORK (AP)—Minnie Minoso holds one record he would be glad to give up. It is the American League all time high — 23 — for most times hit by a pitched ball in one season.

The 33-year-old Cuban has been plunked 100 times in a big league career that stretches over parts of seven seasons.

Opposing pitchers and their managers sometimes say Minnie doesn't try to get out of the way. They claim Minoso will let a stray pitch nick his bat or graze his elbow if the Chicago White Sox are desperate for a base runner.

Minoso doesn't like sort of talk. "Some people pick up ball quick, when it leave pitcher's hand," he said when the Sox were at Yankee Stadium. "Me, I pick up ball four-five feet away."

"They pitch me tight," said Minnie. "I hit close to the plate. Very close. I crowd. Sometimes I guess, like when Whitey Ford pitched the other night, I guess, expect a slow curve with two strike. He throw fast ball inside."

Minoso is having a good year with the speedy White Sox. He is hitting .38, has driven in 20 runs and has stolen four bases among Chicago's total of 24, tops in the majors.

"Now I take the game like I am supposed to do," he said. "I am more relaxed, more confident. Before I used to fight myself. I wanted to do everything right away."

"All the time now I try to go to right field. No more swing for the home run."

The majors have a new rule this season that if a batter is hit by a pitched ball in the strike zone, the umpires shall rule "strike" and make the hitter stay at the plate. Minoso says that wasn't meant for him.

"I never was hit by pitch that was a strike," he said. "Only two times I was hit this year, both way inside and high. Nobody gets hit on purpose. This is too serious business. Only one time I really hurt when I got hit side head and got fracture (1955 by Yanks' Bob Grim)."

Beaver Creek Club Party Set Saturday

Somebody 'Goofed'

DAYTON, Ohio (U-P) — Someone "goofed."

Law enforcement officers from throughout the Miami Valley were in Dayton Wednesday, attending an FBI school at police headquarters.

"Someone" passed the word they could park their cars in the nearby county-owned parking lot. Someone else spotted the non-county cars and called the sheriff's office. Deputies towed six of the illegally parked cars away.

Chief Deputy R. K. Pfauhl said today "no tow-in charges were collected."

SPECTACULAR CURE
CLEVELAND — Ransom C. Talbert's self-prescribed cure for his fear of high places is a stroll along the Detroit-Superior Bridge railing, 100 feet above the Cuyahoga River. Police, however, want him to find a cure a little less spectacular, and put him in jail Wednesday night to think it over.

Ohio House, Senate At Odds Over Adjustment

'Omnibus' Bill May Have More 'Passengers' Than Suspected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The "omnibus" municipal court bill, by the time the Legislature calls it quits, may have more "passengers" than anyone dreamed.

The possibility of sudden expansion of the jurisdiction of many existing municipal courts was developing today as a result of the General Assembly's determination to junk the justice of the peace system and replace it with a system of county courts.

Legislative sources indicated many smaller counties in the state, in an attempt to avoid the extra cost of county courts, may decide in the next few weeks to ask the Legislature to grant their county-seat municipal courts countywide jurisdiction.

By holding off action on the House-approved municipal court "omnibus" bill until final adjournment day, the Senate would be in a position to write into the bill the decisions of the various counties on whether to go ahead and establish county courts or ask broader jurisdiction for existing municipal courts.

The House and Senate, at the moment, are at odds over the date for final adjournment. The Senate at first wanted sine die adjournment June 7, then adjournment to June 11 and then was confronted late Thursday with the decision of the House Republican caucus to set sine die adjournment June 18 or, at the latest, June 19.

In a night session, the Senate refused unanimously to accept the House changes. That action produces a legislative standoff without recent parallel. The next move appears to be up to the House.

The two houses were in agreement on one point, however: The final day of the working session will be next Wednesday, May 29. Leading up to that milestone, the Senate scheduled a vote today on the $1,154,734,000 appropriations bill to operate the state government for the two-year bookkeeping period which starts July 1.

There probably will be no amendments to the big money bill accepted on the floor, in keeping with recent tradition.

Senate passage of the House-approved general appropriation generally signals the beginning of the end of a legislative session.

The bill as approved by the Senate Finance Committee is nearly three million dollars above the bill as approved by the House and five million above the recommendations of Gov. C. William O'Neill.

The Ohio Senate Thursday adopted a House-approved resolution proposing a constitutional amendment which would permit counties to adopt a charter form of government. The Senate vote was unanimous. If the House accepts Senate changes, the proposal will go on next November's statewide ballot.

The proposed amendment would permit counties to adopt by majority vote a charter government which would have concurrent powers with municipalities on police, fire, water and other services.

The House passed a Senate-approved bill permitting school heads to expel pupils and hold school board hearings later. Under present law only the school boards have authority to expel.

The House also completed legislative action on a Senate bill to set the minimum school year at 176 days of actual instruction.

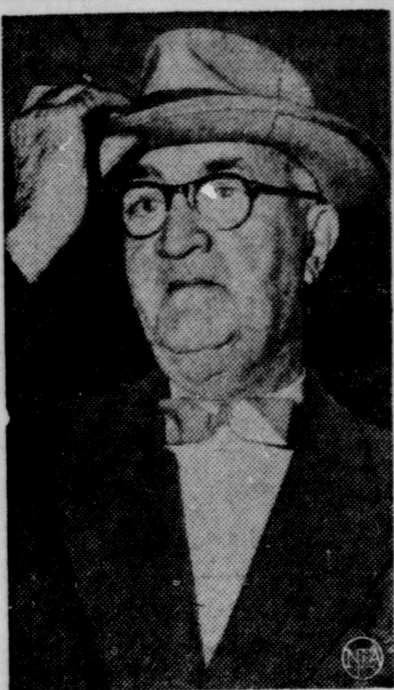

The Senate virtually completed legislative action on a House bill prohibiting advertising of the retail price of beer. Backers said the aim is to prevent the "unethical" practice by some big stores of offering beer at cut rate prices to attract trade.

The Senate also passed a House-approved bill to correct another alleged unfair competitive situation which arose through a loophole in the state law governing the sale of cigarettes.

The Senate completed legislative action on a bill which would include buses used for hauling farm workers under the heading of farm trucks for licensing purposes. Two important measures up for House votes today are Senate-approved bills to:

Set up the "ground rules" for eligibility of overcrowded school districts to participate in state aid for construction of classroom facilities. Money for the state aid will be provided from the 150 million dollar bond issue adopted by the voters in November, 1955.

Make parents liable for the vandalism of their children and provide for bonds of up to $500, posted by the parents, to guarantee a child's future good behavior and cover any damage he might do.

The House also will vote on a proposal to give lower-paid state employees pay raises of 12½ million dollars over the next two years. Passage will send the measure to a waiting Senate.

May Not Rebuild Missouri Village Ripped By Tornado

FREMONT, Mo. (AP)—Some survivors of the tornado that all but wiped out this tiny Ozark village—convinced the elements have conspired against them—are ready to give up.

There is doubt the town ever will be rebuilt.

Twelve days ago it was hit by a flash flood. Then Tuesday the twister sought out the village, nestled in a valley in the heart of a forest section, and virtually leveled the town.

Six were killed and about one-fourth of the 207 residents were injured. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alley, who had to climb to the roof of their home to escape the flash flood, were among the tornado dead.

Only a church and a handful of the town's 50 houses remained intact. Fremont's $500,000 new grade and high school, on a hill overlooking the town, was wrecked.

"There just isn't much left to build around," said Bill Bosley, Frisco station agent.

The village already was in an economic decline. Once it was a thriving timber town of nearly 2,000.

Most of those who stayed on when the Midco Lumber Co. shut down, after the big timber stands had been worked out, were elderly retired couples. The fishing is good in the clearwater streams and it's in the heart of some of the Midwest's most scenic forest land.

The U.S. Forest Service has been trying to replace the cut-over timber, but the devastating twister undid much of the work. Ranger Paul Larsson reported much of the stand was "damaged badly."

The nerve-jangling effect of flood and storm on Fremont townfolk was summed up in the words of Bosley, the railroad station agent: "I listened to storm warnings on the radio until I just couldn't stand it any longer. I closed up the station and went home just as fast as I could. The storm came right behind me."

OKS RECORD BUDGET
SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America Thursday approved a record $1,734,656 budget for 1958 at the end of its four-day annual convention at Wittenberg College. The synod approved a 10 per cent increase to $113,135 as its contribution to Wittenberg's operating fund.
